

E A E
The sins I had were countless many hidden in my heart,
E B
But through the dark a light came shining through
E A E
At first that light was painful as a guilty man exposed
E B E
But by that light my God has made me new

Trouble was the burden that I thought I had to bear
I grew weary from the worry and the pain
But there's one friend I found who can calm those fears and failures
There's one with the peace to overcome

When death knocks at my door, I won't fear it anymore
The keys to eternal life I'll hold
But still I'll be surprised when I open my new eyes
And see my name upon God's holy scroll

In heaven's endless skies, there just won't be room for lies
What a pure and honest song we'll sing
The saints will gather round, overwhelmed by that great sound
And there they'll praise their king eternally
